Walter Dominguez is a Los Angeles documentary filmmaker who is producing and directing the first television history series about the story of how Los Angeles came to be: Whitewashed Adobe: The Rise of Los Angeles. He will make a presentation about one fascinating aspect of early LA area history: The Mission Play, by John Steven McGroarty. This spectacular pageant, staged for decades in San Gabriel and involving a huge cast of professional actors and performers from local families, achieved enormous fame and longevity, breaking all theatrical records in history. To highlight his discussion, Walter will show video clips from interviews he conducted for his television series with two individuals with knowledge and personal experience about this remarkable, and now almost forgotten, theatrical event.

The Association has a wish list for the Museum: a vacuum, scanner and a shredder are just a couple of things we need now.... If you have either of them collecting dust, the Association can put them to good use. Call or email if you have an item to donate to the SGHA.
